Randy,

That's the only decent method I've found to measure the port runners accurately. There is a 2 part port moulding compound available(very popular with the car guys). I have been using the stuff that dentists use for taking impressions as I'm cheap(read thrifty} and my wife is a dental hygenist. It doesn't work as well as the other but still gets the job done. If you want the good stuff try PERMA-FLEX MOULD COMPANY at 1-614-252-8034 in Ohio
